

Parrots in the Crescenta Valley

For the past twenty years, we have seen and heard flocks of squawking parrots flying through the Crescenta Valley. How did they get here? Where are they coming from and where they are going?

Our speaker for this program is Brenda Ramirez. Brenda is a Research

Technician at the Moore Laboratory of Zoology at Occidental College. She is working on Moore Lab's Free-flying Los Angeles Parrot Project (FLAPP) to evaluate how the non-native Los Angeles parrot populations have changed genetically as they have adapted to their new urban habitats.
